On March 12th, 2025, Rajarshi Shahu College of Engineering proudly inaugurated its IEEE Communication Society. The event, jointly organized by the IEEE Communication Society and the IEEE RSCOE Student Branch, was an important step in increasing awareness and interest in communication technology among students. The day featured inspiring speeches and student recognition, making the inauguration a grand success.

The event began with Saraswati Vandana, a traditional prayer seeking blessings for knowledge and wisdom. This peaceful start created a positive and respectful atmosphere.

After the Vandana, the honoured guests were welcomed and felicitated to appreciate their support for the newly formed Communication Society.

The next part of the event was the Speech by Dignitaries. Dr. Swati Kale, the Branch Counsellor, gave a motivational speech, stressing the importance of communication technology and encouraging students to take part in the society's activities. Dr. S.C. Wagaj, Head of the E&TC Department, spoke about the academic achievements of the IEEE RSCOE Student Branch. Then, Director Dr. S.P. Bhosle shared insights about the various opportunities that the IEEE Communication Society offers for learning and career growth. Finally, Dr. Amar Buchade, Chair of IEEE Pune Section, officially inaugurated the IEEE Communication Society by unveiling the board in a ceremonial curtain-opening.

One of the main highlights of the event was the Student Felicitations segment, where outstanding students were appreciated for their achievements in communication technology.

The Chair of the IEEE Communication Society, Mr. Soham Nimbargi, then spoke about the vision and future plans of the chapter. The event ended with a Vote of Thanks by Chapter Advisor, Mrs. Jyoti Tipale, who expressed gratitude to all the dignitaries, guests, faculty members, students, and volunteers for making the inauguration a success.
